Until that time he would hold the position of Group Head of Acquisitions at the Company, which he obtained on September 11, 2013. He was promoted as Atrium's Head of Acquisitions in September 2011, since when he has been responsible for the Company's pipeline of potential acquisition opportunities, most recently overseeing the Company's acquisition of Galeria Dominikan' ska, in Poland in June 2013. Liad has a B.A. in Business Economics & Management from Guilford Glazer School of Business & Management, Ben-Gurion University and a MBA from Reccanati Business School, Tel Aviv University.

Alison Lazerwitz
Swarovski

Alison Lazerwitz is currently the Executive Vice President/General Counsel of Daniel Swarovski Corporation AG, the global leading producer and retailer of cut crystal, genuine gemstones and created stones. Swarovski's world headquarters are located in Männedorf, Switzerland. Alison has over twenty five years of experience leading businesses and legal departments on a global scale, including retail and manufacturing sites, focusing on corporate business integrity/compliance initiatives as well as cross border acquisitions and contracts. Prior to moving to Zurich, Alison spent nine years in Paris working for Sodexo, an international leader in outsourced services. Alison was Sodexo's first Chief Legal Officer and also gained business experience while at Sodexo as the Senior Vice President for International Development. In addition to living in Europe, Alison has strong ties to the US. She attended the University of Virginia for both her undergraduate and legal studies, and was a litigator in Philadelphia for the law firm Duane Morris. Alison has also been the Assistant General Counsel for ARAMARK, based in Philadelphia and the General Counsel for the Wood Company, based in Allentown, PA.

Alberto Francesco Figone Walgreens Boots Alliance

I completed my studies in native Italy where I also attended University graduating in Law. As an Italian - qualified attorney, I started my career in private practice with a focus on real estate, commercial and property law.

Shortly after moving to the UK, in 2007 I joined Walgreens Boots Alliance (then Alliance Bots) as a corporate and commercial lawyer and to this day I held several different positions within the organisation taking care of wholesale activities and more recently international retail operations and franchise business.

This covers a wide range of commercial activities but also Corporate Governance, M&A, Regulatory and Compliance in a number of different jurisdictions.

Mette Lykke Too Good to Go

A third of all food produced in the world is wasted. As CEO of Too Good To Go, I get to lead a team of 270 talented Waste Warriors with a strong mission. We want to inspire and empower everyone to take action against food waste. For starters, we've created a marketplace for surplus food saving millions of meals from going to waste and we work with 18,000+ supermarkets, restaurants, bakeries, hotels and any other food retailer that throws out food by the end of business on a regular basis. I co-founded Endomondo in 2007, a social fitness community with the mission of making fitness fun and with now more than 30 million users across the world. I left Endomondo in 2017 to take on fighting food waste as a new important challenge. I love building things that matter and I'm driven by purpose, talented people, speed and personal development.
