

Dentons signs the Equal Representation in Arbitration Pledge to promote women in arbitration

September 16, 2016

Dentons' International Arbitration practice is a signatory of the Equal Representation in Arbitration Pledge. This pledge gathers counsel, arbitrators, corporations, states, arbitral institutions, academics and others, who want to improve the profile and representation of women in arbitration. The signatories commit to taking action to encourage the appointment of women as arbitrators on an equal opportunity basis.

Dentons has a strong track record of recommending women as arbitrators or chair of tribunals and we are proud to count a large number of talented women among our International Arbitration partners.

Dentons' support of this initiative is part of our overall global commitment to creating a more diverse and inclusive working environment around the world. To find out more, please refer to our global statement on diversity and inclusion.
