London —Dentons has advised Belfont Hotels Ltd on its acquisition of the Cosmopolitan Hotel in Leeds, England from Peel Hotels Limited.

With 89 bedrooms, the Cosmopolitan Hotel is in the city centre of Leeds, England. Previously known as The Golden Lion Hotel, the Cosmopolitan is one of the oldest hotels in Leeds and has been open for over 100 years.

Matthew Tinger, UK Corporate partner at Dentons, said, "We are delighted to have acted for Belfont Hotels on the acquisition of the Cosmopolitan Hotel particularly during these uncertain times for the hotel and leisure industry."

Simon Masri, UK Real Estate partner at Dentons, added, "Situated in the heart of the Leeds city centre, the Cosmopolitan Hotel is a great addition to our client's portfolio."

Partners Matthew Tinger and Simon Masri led on the matter with support from Corporate associate Joseph Collingwood, Employment partner Sarah Beeby, Employment associate Tom Fancett, and Environment and Natural Resources associates Laura Mackett and Amy Morin.
