

Dentons launches TechConcierge programme

February 5, 2021

London —Dentons has launched its TechConcierge programme. The exclusive programme supports all aspects of the development and scale-up of high-growth businesses through an IP-led full-service legal offering.

Through the TechConcierge programme, Dentons' cross-discipline team becomes a company's strategic partner – developing a technology commercialisation strategy and implementation plan while providing access to its unrivalled global platform and sector expertise.

Onboarding into the programme includes a TechConcierge workshop with practice area specialists to develop a bespoke plan with actionable recommendations, legal priorities and commercial objectives. This can include an IP audit to help companies gain a snapshot into how their IP assets and strategy compare with sector benchmarks. The plan will be project managed by the TechConcierge team to ensure on-time delivery. Regular TechConcierge reports will be issued, setting out current status and detailing next actions. The programme includes a range of additional benefits, including unprecedented access through our platform and promotion globally, entrepreneur socials, bespoke training, including business and soft skills training, and access to core template legal documents.

The core legal practices covered by the programme include: intellectual property, corporate, tax, commercial and IT, data privacy and protection, employment, ESG, share schemes and equity/stock-based incentive plans, and dispute resolution.

Justin Hill, London-based partner and head of Dentons' Patent Prosecution and Opposition practice across Europe, said: "Our market-leading Patent Attorney and Technology teams understand high-growth businesses, including their pivotal role in driving economic interests, productivity and competitiveness. High-growth businesses are ambitious and yet have limited resources. In addition to capital and world class advisers, businesses require fluid business connectivity and access to opportunities globally."
