

Overview

Dentons has the strongest oil and gas team of any law firm in Bolivia. Our span of work covers the entire oil and gas industry and the entire industry value chain. We have extensive experience advising on a wide range of projects and facilities, including upstream concessions, oilfield services, LNG, supply and transportation, downstream retail and marketing. We also have experience in the privatization and liberalization of the market and all of the implications these processes mean to industry market players. Clients have included oil majors, independents and integrated energy companies, transportation and service companies, industrial concerns, state-owned enterprises, multinational and international financial institutions.

Our experience includes

- Public bid support
- Farm-in/farm-out transactions
- Exploration and Exploitation Agreements
- Construction and outsourcing
- Industry regulation counseling
- Health, safety and environment advise
- Labor and immigration counseling
- Administrative litigation
- Surface rights
- Drafting and negotiation of main contracts of the industry
- Project finance
- Mergers and acquisitions
- Joint ventures
- Tax

Representative Experience

Our experience includes

- Participating in the drafting of a new hydrocarbons law upon the government decision to privatize the oil and gas market
- Serving as local counsel for the LNG pipeline (GASBOL) between Bolivia and Brazil. The scope of this multibillion contract, the largest infrastructure project in South America, entails complex and drawn-out negotiation processes.

- Representing 100% of hydrocarbon companies in Bolivia in a dispute resolution against the government of Bolivia arising from the entry into force of a new law, with abusive clauses against the companies.
