

Overview

Recent reforms have underlined Australia's commitment to renewable sources, providing certainty to the industry and encouraging investment. With Australia becoming an attractive proposition for renewable energy investment, rely on a team with experience in the industry.

Whether you are a developer, operator, financier or government agency, we will guide you through the legal issues arising from the business of generation, transmission, distribution and supply.

Rely on our experience in advising on:

- Renewable energy project agreements
- Site acquisition and tenure
- Project construction issues
- Project financing
- Power purchase agreements
- Green Building standards, green leasing and contracts for Green Star projects
- Emissions trading

Our work spans the areas of:

- Wind
- Hydropower
- Solar
- Biodiesel

With access to renewable energy lawyers in our offices around the world, we can strengthen your position on cross-border projects. Our Australian team have advised on projects in Australia and Papua New Guinea.
