

Overview

To address the needs of our clients, we take a holistic approach to the personal, business, legal and regulatory issues impacting their unique family enterprise, the intimate, long-standing relationships we have with most of them providing us with comprehensive knowledge of their values and objectives. As a result, many of our clients view us as more than just their lawyers but rather as integral, value-added members of their advisory team. We invest in each new client relationship to achieve this outcome.

Our partners counsel and assist our clients in matters such as:

- Security and privacy (personal and cyber)
- Individual, corporate and partnership taxation
- Trusts, estates and wealth preservation
- Real estate (including hotels and leisure assets)
- Aircraft
- Regulatory
- Employment and immigration
- Public and private investments
- Philanthropy
- Family office structures and governance matters
- Dispute resolutions

Dentons' representation of family office and high net worth individuals spans six continents. Our global, full-service capability allows us to help our clients navigate matters in multiple jurisdictions (as demanded in today's international marketplace) while actively engaging with them in their local community. Depending on the client's situation, we create a "team of teams" that includes lawyers from among our many practice areas and/or locations to provide the needed expertise and geographic presence. For some of our family office clients, we have served as outside general counsel and chief security officer. We bring to each situation a value-oriented philosophy and an innovative approach that is always viewed from the unique perspective of each client's personal and business objectives.

For some of our clients, we also provide services at the intersection of asset protection and family law, including: valuation and protection of heritage assets; pre- and post-nuptial, civil partnership, cohabitation and other domestic agreements; divorce (alimony, division of marital estate, child support); paternity suits; and arrangements for children with complex needs.
