

Overview

You know that education drives social, cultural and economic advancement around the world. But you're facing increasing challenges in financing and funding, data privacy, strategic partnering, real estate, tax, labor and employment. You're also facing a range of intense regulatory pressures, all underpinned by complex business and political issues.

You need to protect, maintain and fund your ongoing operations and organization, while also considering future possibilities for expansion. To realize your plans you need expertise in the public education landscape, and with Dentons you can think about growth, planning for the future and managing day-to-day operations efficiently and economically.

Dentons has a genuine commitment to educational institutions. Our team of professionals has a reputation for proactive representation of schools, colleges and universities, education associations and foundations, and other education-related organizations. We're also experienced in acting for the public and private sectors. Dentons' awareness of issues from all sides enables us to identify problems and issues and help you resolve them. Come to us for advice that gives you a deep understanding of the regulatory, political and economic issues central to the business of education.

Look to our lawyers for effective solutions for educational institutions in the public or private sector, including:

- Funding and project financing—including implications of PF2 and capital funding
- Public policy and advocacy
- Education regulation and corporate governance
- Private and independent school audits
- School desegregation
- Civil rights
- Special education
- Education administration
- Funding
- Labor and employment
- Development of charter school infrastructure
- Boards of education and education foundations
- Education regulation
- Real estate and zoning
- Advising governments and local authorities on their real estate portfolios

- Construction, extension and renovation of educational institutions
- Taxes
- Maintenance and facilities maintenance