

Overview

From housing properties to utilities distribution infrastructure to renewable energy assets, military bases have numerous needs that are served by private sector investment. If your company is seeking long-term contracts with the military services to own and operate these assets, Dentons provides the legal and business experience you need.

Our Military Bases and Communities team is an extension of our prestigious Government Contracts practice and works closely with our real estate and corporate lawyers. Having worked closely with the US Department of Defense on numerous privatization projects, Dentons is one of the premier law firms handling transactions involving military bases throughout the nation.

In addition, our team actively represents private sector clients in acquiring and developing properties that have been closed through the Base Realignment and Closure process. We also advise local governments and redevelopment authorities working through the process.

With multidisciplinary skills and experience encompassing environmental law, construction contracting and corporate and tax-exempt financing, our team brings the full range of capabilities you need when operating in these unique and vital communities.