

Overview

Professionals take major responsibilities in their work. Health care professionals make life and death decisions. Architects and engineers make decisions that have significant safety implications. Accountants, brokers and financial advisors make decisions that have a major impact on financial health.

This responsibility exposes you to major liabilities. Professional liability is a very sophisticated area of insurance defense; it requires a legal team with experience in class actions, regulated professions and risk management.

Dentons has that legal team. We work with insurers and professionals from all walks of life and around the world to assess their risks, put procedures in place to mitigate them, and vigorously defend them, if necessary. We act for:

- large accounting firms in class action suits
- accountants and lawyers in negligence claims
- accountants in disciplinary and regulatory proceedings
- architects and engineers in construction claims and regulatory proceedings
- surveyors in property related claims
- doctors in medical malpractice claims
- insurance and real estate agents and brokers
- insurers of health care and financial professionals governing bodies such as law societies and colleges of physicians and surgeons

Backed by a depth of experience in alternate dispute resolution, litigation, insurance and class actions, we work side by side with you to develop strategies that address reputation-threatening matters quickly and effectively, reducing concerns and costs.

We want to be partners in your success so we know our reputation depends on protecting yours.
