

Health Care Coding, Documentation and Reimbursement (United States)

Overview

Today's escalating scrutiny of governmental payments to health care providers comes as a result of intensified efforts by the federal government to eliminate fraud and abuse and to replenish the Medicare and Medicaid coffers. Health care is a highly regulated industry, and providers are inundated with inquiries from a wide-variety of enforcement agencies. Lawyers and coding professionals at Denton offices represent providers across the globe and help them address concerns relating to coding compliance, documentation and reimbursement.

Resolve your billing/coding compliance concerns by collaborating with our team of attorneys and coding professionals. Handle complex issues that arise under the False Claims Act, the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act, the Federal Sentencing Guidelines and a myriad of other regulatory requirements. Develop training programs, policies and procedures to avoid compliance issues from the outset. With a wide range of experience, we stand ready to address your specific needs.
