

Overview

Our life sciences and health care team understands the pressures facing this sector. We are seeing ever-increasing costs and regulation, an aging population and the growing incidence of chronic disease. We also recognize the opportunities offered by digital delivery of health care, personalized medicine, preventative health care and the world-class medical research undertaken in Australia.

You need a team that offers not only an understanding of your business, but also the perspective and industry know-how to represent your interests anywhere in the world.

Members of our multidisciplinary team include tertiary qualified health and science professionals, giving us an exceptional understanding of the unique legal challenges facing this sector.

We represent health and allied health service providers in both the public and private sectors, and health care insurers. We also act for pharmacies and aged care and disability service providers. In the Life Sciences field, our lawyers have advised the university sector, research institutes, start-ups and listed and global companies.

Our lawyers are recognized as leaders in the categories of Life Sciences Regulatory, Product Liability, Intellectual Property Law, Biotechnology Law, Information Technology Law and Retirement Villages and Senior Living Law.

We advise and act in relation to:

- Procurement
- Commercial contracts including supply and distribution agreements and licensing of technology
- Intellectual property protection and commercialization
- Information technology and biotechnology
- Regulatory compliance
- Competition law
- Administrative law including inquests and inquiries
- Confidentiality, privacy and data security
- Mediation and litigation
- M&A, corporate structuring, capital raising, IPOs and corporate governance
- Employment and safety
