

Life sciences and health care in Bolivia

Overview

Life Sciences and Health Care companies are facing enormous challenges and unpredictable changes in the coming years. Regulatory pressures are increasing. At the same time, Bolivia's medical system is undergoing significant reforms, the public healthcare system is still facing immense pressure to meet demands and treat basic health care needs. To meet these and other challenges, you need a law firm that understands your issues and your business and can effectively represent your interests anywhere in the world.

Dentons is that firm. We focus on the issues that are the core of your business, day in and day out, just as you do. And our lawyers have done so for many years. We work alongside you in the key areas you expect from your lawyers, and some that may surprise you.

Our dedicated, multi-specialty practice provides a wide array of services across the spectrum of health-related companies. This includes advice on intellectual property rights, best procurement practices, government regulatory policies and enforcement, patient confidentiality, corporate transactions, mergers and acquisitions, labor and employment and litigation, to name a few.

Who do we do this for? We work closely with the most important health care establishments and services providers in the country, as well as international pharmaceutical companies, health care and life sciences players.
