

Overview

Dentons Guevara & Gutierrez lawyers help you navigate the ever-changing global regulatory landscape at the intersection of technology, communications, business and law. Whether you provide communications services or content, develop software and apps, invest in—or rely on—technology, we have the talent, experience and creativity to help you succeed.

Benefit from sound legal advice on regulatory and compliance requirements, M&A and other corporate transactions, commercial arrangements, restructurings and spectrum matters. We represent clients before the Bolivian entities in charge of the control and audit of the telecommunication industry, and have experience in:

- Strategic technological alliances and joint ventures
- Internet applications
- Technology acquisitions, integration, transfer and licensing
- IT and telecom regulatory advisory
- Acquisition of regulatory licenses
- Customer and reseller agreements
- E-commerce and social-commerce
- IT due diligence
- Technological innovation
- Internet and web-based services
- Domain names
- Software
- Data protection, security and privacy
- Telecommunications
- IT outsourcing and service level agreements

Our team works together with you to achieve optimal results by leveraging our expertise and collaborating with our international network of communications lawyers spread across our offices in Africa, Asia, Canada, Central and Eastern Europe, the Middle East, North America, Western Europe and beyond. Particularly well-known for our strong teams in developed markets, we can support you on any cross-border deals, regardless of their nature or complexity, help you expand your business locally or abroad.
