Overview

Partner with Dentons to keep you moving in Canada and internationally.

We understand that the efficient flow of freight and passengers is essential to the sustainability and growth of the Canadian and global economies. It is imperative in a market as geographically large and sparsely populated as Canada that companies operating in the transportation industry have a partner well-versed in handling the legal issues associated with the commercial and operational challenges specific to this sector.

You operate in an increasingly complex environment and Dentons wants to be your navigator. The Dentons transportation team will help you to foresee and manage potential risks while accessing and taking advantage of opportunities in the transportation of freight and passengers by air, bus, rail, ship and truck. Our combination of industry experience and familiarity with the regulatory systems means the advice we provide is strategic, practical and cost-effective. We are uniquely positioned to help you to implement strategies to ensure you are compliant and prepared for the future.

Whether you are new to Canada or looking to expand, our multi-disciplinary team offers a national and international reach and is fully integrated to support every aspect of your needs. Benefit from our depth and breadth of experience in multi-modal transportation, logistics and freight forwarding, and our strengths in environmental law, public policy, labour relations, Aboriginal rights, insurance, dispute resolution, mergers and acquisitions, commercial agreements, tax, financing, licensing, project development, structuring and governance, commercial agreements and real estate and land assembly, as well as our familiarity with governments and their agencies.

Members of Dentons transportation team are active in the Canadian Marine Law Association, the Canadian Board of Marine Underwriters, the Association of Average Adjusters, the Comite Maritime International, the National Association of Railroad Trial Counsel, the Canadian Transport Lawyers Association, the US Transportation Lawyers Association and the Canadian Urban Transit Association. In addition, Dentons is proud to be a founding member of The Van Horne Institute, a leading transportation policy and research agency.
