

Overview

The transportation sector is subject to varying degrees of government regulation depending on mode and geography. Some modes of transport have seen a shift in focus from economic (right-of-entry) barriers to safety-based regulatory regimes. Other modes remain subject to a myriad of local, regional and national restrictions and significant technical regulation. Issues become more complex for companies with trans-boundary operations.

Dentons' Transportation team guides you through the regulatory maze, allowing you to focus on achieving your business goals. Our willingness to take the time to understand your business means our advice is relevant and pragmatic. Couple this with our experience dealing with government agencies and regulators, and you receive timely, cost-effective advice and representation.

We provide assistance in obtaining necessary permits, licenses, and other operating authorizations so that you can efficiently commence operations in new jurisdictions or expand operations in existing ones. Ongoing regulatory compliance is a critical element of good management. We work with you at the management and operations levels to ensure you are aware of developments affecting your compliance obligations. When incidents occur, we provide immediate strategic advice and, where necessary, experienced counsel before agencies, tribunals and courts.

Don't just take our word for it. As a client said of us in Chambers 2012: "...the work is absolutely excellent, and makes our life much easier—they anticipate what we need."

Areas of focus include:

- Environment and Natural Resources
- EU Law and Policy
