

Overview

Dentons Paz Horowitz has an experienced arbitration team that represents clients in controversies involving a wide spectrum of legal issues, including local and international commercial matters, investor-state contracts and energy, and oil & gas disputes.

Our team has a deep understanding of Ecuadorian legal procedure and works with the Firm's other practice areas to determine the most efficient strategies for judicial and administrative as well as for mediation and negotiation proceedings. We stay up to date in new trends in international arbitration and are proactive in our efforts to reduce and avoid unnecessary litigations, presenting alternative solutions to avoid conflict whenever possible.

When conflicts are unavoidable, the team employs diverse dispute resolution techniques to handle commercial and investment disputes filed under local or foreign arbitration courts, serve as local counsel in domestic matters that arise in an international arbitration and provide negotiation assistance with government agencies or private companies.
