

Arbitration in the United Kingdom

Overview

Dentons is a go-to firm for both commercial and investment arbitration around the world, and our UK team of experts regularly advises multinational corporations and global financial institutions in complex cross-border disputes.

Our highly experienced lawyers handle arbitrations across a wide range of sectors and many jurisdictions, particularly the emerging markets. Acting for both respondents and claimants, we have a strong and diverse client list.

The international arbitration group at Dentons is particularly well-known for its work in high-level energy-related disputes, handling complex, big-ticket cases concerning LNG, gas, electricity and renewables. We have seen an increase in financial institutions work as they increasingly turn to arbitration to resolve disagreements with third parties. Our lawyers also bring a breadth of expertise across the technology, media, telecoms, hospitality and construction markets too.

Many of the high-value arbitrations that we handle from the UK are global in nature, and we offer clients the benefit of our international footprint. Our worldwide practice is extensive and operates under all of the leading rules, including ICC, LCIA, UNCITRAL, Stockholm Chamber of Commerce, Geneva Chamber of Commerce, DIAC (Dubai), HKIAC, SIAC (Singapore), AAA and ICSID. Clients based in the UK and managing disputes around the globe can therefore be assured of a seamless approach to the nuances of multi-jurisdictional challenges.
