

Overview

We help clients involved in short-term financing of pools of residential mortgage loans, both as lenders and as borrowers. This type of financing is often in the form of a repurchase agreement or "repo". Mortgage loan originators are able to maintain liquidity using repo lines, between the time of funding and the time of securitization or other sale to investors, keeping lending channels open.

Partner with Dentons and rest assured you're working with the market leader in repo financing for mortgage loans. We can also assist you with financing of servicing rights, and with servicing advance facilities. Working alongside our Securitization and Regulatory Compliance practices, we bring unmatched knowledge of the industry and its developing best practices.