

Mergers and Acquisitions in Central Asia

Overview

In Central Asia's dynamically developing business and regulatory environment, you need a reliable legal partner for M&A transactions who understands your business.

Whether you are on the buy or sell side of a transaction, you will benefit from Dentons' global team and integrated platform of services. We have years of experience in structuring transactions, liaising with regulators and taking into account the client's interests.

Draw on our unique experience to achieve effective solutions for implementing complex transactions. Our dedicated team of M&A lawyers is always at the forefront of large-scale, important deals in the region.

As the largest global law firm in Central Asia, Dentons offers an integrated approach to supporting your M&A transactions on a turnkey basis. Turn to us for seasoned advice on matters including:

- Structuring M&A transactions
- Drafting sale and purchase agreements and shareholders' agreements
- Negotiations
- Participating in transaction closing
- Conducting due diligence of a target company
- Drafting corporate resolutions
- Analyzing regulatory issues
- Filing applications for approvals/notices

Always striving to protect our clients' interest to the greatest possible extent, we offer effective mechanisms (in particular, for payment procedures and transfer of rights) acceptable to all parties to a transaction.
