

Overview

Data and cybersecurity breaches are a top concern for all businesses. Every organization has a business interest and a legal obligation to take appropriate steps to protect its data and systems, and to deal with incidents quickly when they happen.

Taking the right approach to cybersecurity compliance and dealing with incidents swiftly is essential, but can be challenging, especially if approached on a global scale. Dentons has one of the most sophisticated and largest dedicated privacy and cybersecurity teams across the globe, with deep privacy and cybersecurity expertise in every region. Our global team has extensive experience advising on all aspects of data and cybersecurity compliance, incident preparedness and data breaches.

If you require immediate assistance regarding a data breach, contact our team at DataIncidentResponse@dentons.com and you will be directed to an individual that can assist you immediately.

Our solutions

- Integrated Data Breach Response Solution
- Cybersecurity Compliance and Preparedness

Integrated Data Breach Response Solution

When a breach occurs, our integrated global team, together with our trusted specialist partners, will help you respond swiftly, efficiently and proportionately, in accordance with legal obligations and consistent with regulatory expectations.

- Global cover: We can act rapidly when cross-border data breaches occur. Our global team includes leading privacy and cybersecurity lawyers in 100+ jurisdictions worldwide, with an additional external network of privacy and cybersecurity specialists in regions where we do not have office locations.
- Multidisciplinary teams: Our cybersecurity team includes experts across legal practices, such as financial regulatory, litigation, asset recovery, investigations and labour law relations. Together, we are well positioned to help you identify and implement the optimal business solution.
- Partnerships: We have partnerships and trusted relationships with leading cybersecurity consultancies, digital forensics, strategic communications and PR service providers, as well as providers of other services that may be required when dealing with a serious breach, such as, investigations, insurance, e-discovery, legal tech solutions, call centre and other fulfilment support. We also leverage Dentons Global Advisors, an independent multidisciplinary business consultancy, to develop communications strategies to prepare for and navigate crises, disputes and other complex issues when they arise.

We work together with your in-house team and other partners to support you through all stages of incident response, including:

1. Immediate response and containment
2. Triage and carrying out preliminary impact assessments and risk assessments
3. Breach notification requirements and strategy, drafting and handling notifications to regulators, data subjects and other stakeholders
4. Remedial action
5. Engaging specialist service providers, such as providers of forensics, investigations, call centres, notifications and fulfilment, fraud prevention, credit monitoring
6. Working with PR to help ensure consistency of internal and external messaging, preserve the legal position and protect the brand
7. Handling regulatory liaison
8. Advising on data subject requests, complaints and claims
9. Dispute resolution and litigation support
10. Designing and running lessons learnt sessions
