

Overview

Managing public sector contracts comes with a host of real risks—from cost accounting requirements, audits, pricing and bidding obligations to the potential for investigation or sanction. To navigate the complexities of public contracts, you need insight from lawyers with deep experience in contract management and compliance.

Partner with our bright legal talent at Dentons from the pre-contract phase through project completion or disputes. Our lawyers understand the rules and protocols related to public contracts. You gain a comprehensive perspective of the issues from our collective experience advising both government contractors and governments.

Ensure your systems meet the requirements of public contract authorities wherever and with whomever you conduct business. Glean advice on global regulations related to controlled technology, trade sanctions and due diligence in subcontracting. As a result, you'll circumvent risks with dexterity.

Manage any challenge with confidence. Whether you're handling bid protests, terminations or contracting party transitions during an acquisition, we listen and respond to your needs every step of the way.