

Overview

Regulatory change creates new challenges and new opportunities. To anticipate, plan for and capitalize on these changes, you need a team that understands the interplay of your industry and your market. No matter what sector in which you operate, we can help you spot and adapt to trends as they align with politics, regulation and public policy.

Dentons' Public Policy and Regulation practice is a market leader in the US, helping you navigate the critical intersection of business, law, regulation, policy and politics. Gain the support of a top-tier team providing you comprehensive strategic counsel in all aspects of public policy and regulatory affairs—especially important for regulated industries where significant policy considerations must be informed by political sensitivities.

We will guide you through corporate crisis management, offering targeted legal, political, communications and stakeholder strategic counsel. Confidently handle US government investigations, congressional or administrative agency inquiries, international sanctions, judicial proceedings and other “front page” matters critical to corporate business planning and execution. In a global marketplace, our experience as diplomats and counsel on commercial operations abroad is unrivaled, and can serve as a valuable tool in meeting challenges beyond US borders.

Rely on Dentons' precise knowledge and insight on real world implications of domestic policy and regulatory initiatives. With exceptional backgrounds in relevant industries and in legislative and executive bodies at all levels of government, our lawyers and professionals have the deep experience to guide you through large “bet the company” matters and discrete local issues alike.

From advising your offices in global locations undergoing civil unrest, to providing regulatory advice as your popular startup responds to state attorney general inquiries, we will help you achieve your specific business goals. Develop a multi-pronged approach to legislative and regulatory affairs, advocacy and strategic communications.

Draw on our collective experience from the legal, media, business, diplomatic, academic and political arenas in:
