

Public Policy and Regulation in the Mining Sector in Central Asia

Public Policy and Regulation

Unprecedented policy and regulatory issues confront today's global marketplace across all industry sectors. Legislation, government policies and new and changing regulations in a global economy increase business planning risks for you every day, across every sector. The shifting tension between private sector commerce and government oversight of private enterprise is a real threat no matter your geography or your business, and in this high-stakes arena, you require a coordinated approach to anticipate, translate and influence legislative and regulatory developments.

Dentons navigates the critical intersection of business, law, regulation, policy and politics. Using a results-oriented approach, we deliver innovative solutions tailored to your specific goals. By working together, you tackle every political or regulatory obstacle with a powerful ally by your side.

Position your business to spot trends and respond to shifting regulatory and legislative landscapes. From analytical planning and risk management, through communications strategy, to administrative and judicial intervention, we guide you every step of the way.

Drive your company forward using strategic and focused advice from government relations professionals who understand the political process. Through deep experience in both government and a variety of regulated industries, we view the issues through a balanced perspective. Our relationships with government officials, regulators and legislators allow us to see beyond the horizon. Leverage this insight to achieve your vision.

Mining

Capital constraint. Increasingly complex regulations. Rising resource nationalism. In the global business of mining, these are just a few of the challenges you may face everyday.

As a global Top 10 law firm with deep experience in the industry, Dentons can help you meet those challenges head-on. Our mining clients include issuers listed on the world's major stock exchanges, including those in Australia, Johannesburg, Hong Kong, London, Moscow, New York and Toronto. Investment banking firms and financial advisors turn to us for our seasoned advice. It's why we're certain our global team's experience will match your global reach.

Look to our lawyers for solutions across the mining sector. Leverage our knowledge in areas such as mergers and acquisitions. While many markets continue to encounter challenges, the fundamentals for the mining sector, including commodity prices, remain strong in the medium term. Trust us to help you play a leading role in the development of resource projects worldwide, as we continuously monitor developments in resource nationalism, including the exercise of royalty, taxing and nationalization powers.

Partner with lawyers who have authored studies related to global resource regimes and published extensively in relation to the streamlining of multiple environmental assessments to support the development of major projects. Rely on a mining team that takes an active role in both the Prospectors and Developers Association of Canada and the Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation.

With Dentons, you'll benefit from our in-depth understanding of the mining sector, as well as our worldwide reach, seamless service, and cross-border, multijurisdictional insight that can provide you with the right strategies to grow your business.

Central Asia

Strategically situated between Asia, Russia, Europe and the Middle East, the countries of Central Asia offer you exciting opportunities. Going against the economic downturn, these oil and mineral-rich countries have shown continued growth—and their importance to the global commodities markets has attracted significant investment in health, education and infrastructure projects, as well as in the development of new industries.

As one of the oldest and largest firms in the region, Dentons can help you seize opportunities in individual countries and in cross-border international transactions. Use our local knowledge in Kazakhstan and Uzbekistan, as well as Azerbaijan—and benefit from our extensive experience in Russia, where these former Soviet republics continue to have strong ties.

Dentons can provide you with agile and forward-thinking advice out of the main financial centers of Almaty, Tashkent, as well as Baku. Let us help you with a full service offering across the banking and finance, energy, mining, real estate, infrastructure, regulatory, and transport sectors.

Work with us to navigate the complexities of local regulations and benefit from the regional and cultural insights we can offer. Combine this with our global reach to maximize the potential of your investments and transactions.
