Singapore Desk in Sydney

As major trading partners, Singapore and Australia enjoy significant flows of capital between the two countries. And with a long history of working with such bilateral investments, Dentons' Australian team can play a key role in helping you follow capital flows into Australia, Papua New Guinea and the Pacific.

Our Australian teams, collaborating with our colleagues at Singapore-based Dentons Rodyk, offer deep industry experience and well-established relationships throughout the region. From banking and finance corporate advisory, property and aged care/retirement living, to construction, energy, natural resources and infrastructure, turn to Dentons for a wide range of seasoned legal counsel.

Banking and Finance

Dentons acts for leading international and domestic financiers and intermediaries in Australia, Southeast Asia and the Pacific, including all four major Australian banks. We have particularly strong experience helping our Australian banking clients follow their customers into the region, as well as in trade and receivables financing, project and infrastructure financing and agribusiness.

Construction

Building and construction projects can give rise to countless challenges. Dentons helps you overcome those challenges at every stage, from pre-contract matters, project delivery methods, project finance, procurement, drafting standards and bespoke construction contracts, through to contract administration and interpretation.

Corporate advisory

Rules regulating corporate governance are becoming more complex for listed and unlisted companies alike. Dentons regularly advises both public and private companies, including assistance with new listings on the Australian Stock Exchange and the Singapore Stock Exchange. Our corporate clients range from small family-owned businesses to the largest Australian institutional and international companies.

Energy and natural resources

With one of the longest-standing energy and natural resources practices in Australasia, Dentons delivers unmatched capabilities handling complex domestic and international projects and transactions. Clients come from across the energy and resources sector trust Dentons for advice on and assistance with corporate, project and operational issues.

Infrastructure

Interest in infrastructure assets is growing in many parts of Asia, particularly Singapore. To take advantage of these burgeoning opportunities, rely on Dentons' experienced infrastructure team. Our lawyers combine backgrounds in corporate advisory, property, construction and finance, along with experience across infrastructure projects in Australia, Papua New Guinea, and Asia.

Property

Dentons serves clients in property-related matters with a blend of legal, business and technical skills. We can help you balance your commercial, financial and legal interests, all while reducing risk. Turn to us for advice on acquisitions and disposals, property development, property finance, retail commercial and industrial leasing, retirement villages and dispute resolution.

Aged care/retirement living

The senior living environment is characterised by complex political, legislative and operational frameworks that are constantly evolving as the demands of our ageing population develop. These changes shape our recommendations to developers and financiers on the operational, financial and structural elements of the senior living environment. Our experience advising on structures is particularly valuable to our Southeast Asian clients, as the region increasingly looks to Australia for models for aged care operations.
