

Overview

Traditionally recognized for its resources, energy, renewables and defence industry sectors, the state of South Australia is mobilizing investment in a wide array of industries from food and wine, health and medical research, education and tourism, through to new sophisticated manufactured export products.

The state's capital, Adelaide, is the hub of commercial activity providing supporting service industries and an export gateway through the port of Adelaide.

Since 1885, the office has proudly supported the economic growth of the region through its dominant position in the banking, finance and property sectors. We also have a strong litigation practice.

Our team has negotiated, structured, financed and managed major infrastructure transactions and industrial, commercial and residential property developments that have been major milestones in the region's development.

Within the team are litigators with specific skill in insolvency and debt recovery matters who regularly act for financial institutions, creditors, liquidators, administrators and receivers.

The talent and efficiency of our litigation team has seen us represent clients in state, federal and international courts. Successful outcomes have been achieved for companies and businesses across a range of industries, from global service providers to state government agencies.

Our Adelaide office also has a proud history of supporting local community organisations such as Catherine House, Cancer Council SA and JusticeNet SA with pro bono legal services.
