

Overview

With more than two decades of continuous economic growth, Australia is recording the best economic performance of any developed country, and the trend is forecast to continue.

Driving this growth is the country's mining and agricultural exports, largely to its neighbors in the East Asian region. This is backed up by its strong service sector as one of the region's financial services hubs, leading tourist destinations, tertiary education providers, health care innovators and property investment havens.

Ranked in the top five countries in the world for its ease of access and relatively low business set-up costs, Australia is a mature and highly regulated developed economy. Competitive advantages are open to many companies through its plethora of free trade agreements with China, the US, Japan, South Korea, Thailand, Malaysia, and Singapore.

As a participant in this nation's growth over the past century, our team continues to serve companies that are ranked in the world's top 2000. These clients range from the majors in the banking sector—the National Australia Bank, Commonwealth Bank of Australia, Westpac Group, ANZ Banking Group and Macquarie Group—heavy hitters in mining such as Origin Energy and Newcrest Mining, through to major construction and property giants, including CIMIC Group.

Work with trusted advisers who are recognized by their peers for their skills in banking and finance, infrastructure construction and property development, energy and resources, the aged care and health sectors and for their support of the country's innovators in the life sciences and technology sectors.

Rely on our ability to navigate the investment and operating opportunities in Australia, with an eye on reducing your cost of doing business, and willingness to introduce you to our formal and informal network of potential stakeholders.
