

Overview

The economy of Australia's third-largest city and closest capital city to Asia—Brisbane—was built on the sectors of mining and resources, agriculture and significant infrastructure development.

Investment in information and communication technology, scientific innovation, the creative industries and higher education has expanded its economic base, and Brisbane is now recording the largest population growth rate of any capital city in Australia.

In line with this economic development, the Brisbane office serves major banks and businesses, regional offices of multinationals, overseas investors and start-up visionaries capitalizing on this growth. Regional and national government and its agencies rely on our advice in helping facilitate growth.

Benefit from a team providing comprehensive advice to both established and new market participants in a range of industries, from energy and resources, construction and infrastructure, property development and financial services through to new technology.

Work with a team that sits on the advisory panels of the major banks, insurance companies, government, government agencies and listed companies in the energy, resources and property sectors. Leverage its particular market standing as leading advisers in building, construction and major infrastructure projects.

You will benefit from our ability to resolve issues across your business from general advisory work, finance, debt recovery, insurance, all aspects of property management and dispute resolution and litigation through to planning and environment matters, intellectual property protection, migration and private client work.

For high-volume transactions, you will enjoy the cost efficiencies and risk minimization delivered by our web-based software solutions. To realize a successful outcome, rely on our Brisbane office team.

Dentons also maintains an Associate Firm relationship in Brisbane.
