

Overview

Strategically situated between Asia, Russia, Europe and the Middle East, the countries of Central Asia offer you exciting opportunities. Going against the economic downturn, these oil and mineral-rich countries have shown continued growth—and their importance to the global commodities markets has attracted significant investment in health, education and infrastructure projects, as well as in the development of new industries.

As one of the oldest and largest firms in the region, Dentons can help you seize opportunities in individual countries and in cross-border international transactions. Use our local knowledge in Kazakhstan and Uzbekistan, as well as Azerbaijan—and benefit from our extensive experience in Russia, where these former Soviet republics continue to have strong ties.

Dentons can provide you with agile and forward-thinking advice out of the main financial centers of Almaty, Tashkent, as well as Baku. Let us help you with a full service offering across the banking and finance, energy, mining, real estate, infrastructure, regulatory, and transport sectors.

Work with us to navigate the complexities of local regulations and benefit from the regional and cultural insights we can offer. Combine this with our global reach to maximize the potential of your investments and transactions.
