

Overview

Formally established in May of 2010, the Taipei office includes experienced lawyers and legal counsel, many of whom hold advanced degrees from and are licensed to practice in Taiwan, China, the United States and the United Kingdom. Members of the team have practiced for more than 25 years, and bring their deep experience to a wide variety of areas, including litigating civil and criminal cases, advising on administrative actions, and handling non-contentious matters for clients including government and business entities, as well as individuals. Together with other Dentons' offices around the world, the Taipei office brings clients comprehensive and reliable legal services around the world.
