

Overview

As the seat of government and the center of Spain's finance and insurance markets, Madrid is home to a vibrant service sector working with global, international and local companies. For companies wishing to do business in Spain, Madrid is a logical first stop.

Dentons has extensive experience in the local and international markets, and our Madrid office can give you clear, thoughtful advice to help drive your business. Working closely with our office in Barcelona—and our offices around the world—Dentons can partner with you, whether you are an international company doing business in Spain or a Spanish business expanding or operating around the world. In addition, our Madrid office provides the first point of contact for any ongoing investment into or from Latin America.

You can access experience across sectors with the support of lawyers who combine local knowledge and international expertise. Look to our team in Madrid for effective solutions. We are experienced in the following practice areas:

- Banking and finance
