

Overview

With free trade agreements with more than 40 countries, including being party to NAFTA, Mexico has a wealth of opportunity for business small and large. New legislation and economic reforms have expanded competition in ports, railroads, telecommunications, electricity generation, natural gas distribution and airports. The low manufacturing costs, strong macro-economic indicators and surge in consumption have added to the country's rapidly developing industrial and service sectors.

Tap into Mexico's dynamism and take advantage of Dentons' presence in two of Mexico's most important cities —Mexico City and Monterrey. Situated in the heart of the country and its seat of power, Mexico City is one of the most important financial centers throughout the Americas. Monterrey is a vital industrial and business center fueled by its close proximity to the United States and hosts an array of industries such as steel, cement, glass, auto parts and brewing.

We regularly assist clients in Mexico and across the world with complex legal matters across a wide range of disciplines in the automotive, energy, infrastructure, manufacturing, mining, natural resources, and real estate sectors, as well as other key industries.

Rely on our experienced team that regularly handles a wide range of practices including:
