

Overview

Evansville and greater Southwest Indiana lead the region in economic opportunity, culture, transportation and education. Evansville has a pro-business climate with a low cost of doing business compared to other areas of the US. According to ranking and review site Niche.com, the municipality has one of the lowest costs of living of any city in the nation, in 2019 coming in 5th lowest.

Our attorneys help clients close deals, manage risks, and identify and pursue new opportunities. We provide transactional, litigation, estate planning, tax and employee benefits services, and economic development advice to government entities and businesses across a variety of industries.

In Evansville, we have a particular focus on our mineral law practice, which includes experience in coal, oil and natural gas matters. Our attorneys have represented many of the nation's largest mineral producers and lenders to this sector in transactions and litigation.

Dentons lawyers serve clients in the communities where they themselves live and work, and Evansville is no exception. We are proud to support the "E is for Everyone" initiative, which is dedicated to celebrating what makes our region great.

Members of our Evansville team have been named to the Indiana Super Lawyers® list and nationally recognized in The Best Lawyers in America©.
