Overview

Hilo—which is home to the county government, the University of Hawai`i, and the largest community on the Big Island—has a diversified economy that includes agriculture, aquaculture, livestock, trade, education and government. Hilo's Foreign Trade Zone (FTZ) allows companies to import parts for assembly and export finished products without paying duties.

With close support from our Honolulu office, we serve businesses and individuals across the Big Island at our Hilo office. Our Big Island clients include some of the State’s biggest landowners and developers. Wherever your business takes you, work with top-tier talent customized to your specific industry, region and business need to help you stay ahead of the curve.
