

Overview

The business-friendly community of Jasper, IN, has an excellent infrastructure to support a growing industrial base. According to the Indiana Department of Workforce Development, Dubois County, of which Jasper is the county seat, consistently has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the state—2.4 percent in August 2019, a month when the national unemployment rate stood at 3.7 percent.

Since the office's opening in 1992, our Jasper team has served as outside general counsel to privately held companies and handled litigation matters for entities of all sizes. We have provided full-service business and tax counsel, and helped clients close deals, manage risks, and identify and take advantage of new opportunities. Our services include transactional, litigation, estate planning, tax and employee benefits consulting, and providing economic development advice to businesses across a variety of industries.

Our office boasts a number of lawyers who have been nationally recognized in Best Lawyers in America, including Managing Partner Bill Kaiser, who has been in the profession's oldest peer-review guide in the areas of closely held companies and family businesses law for the past four years running.

In addition, Jasper lawyer David McGimpsey hosts The Water Values Podcast, which releases episodes twice a month and features interviews with prominent figures in the water industry.
