

Overview

Dentons Cohen & Grigsby's Pittsburgh office has more than 130 lawyers providing legal services in more than 30 distinct areas of the law. The client base is a diverse mix of regional, national and multinational public traded and privately owned companies at all stages of development and across a wide range of industries.

Pittsburgh is the home of some of the renowned industrial legacy businesses of the 20th century but has also made a remarkable transition to the 21st century by moving beyond an economy built on traditional manufacturing (steel, mining, engineering) to a service economy built on robotics and software engineering, banking and finance, healthcare and high-tech manufacturing. The Dentons Cohen & Grigsby Pittsburgh office boasts a strong private equity and strategic M&A corporate and transactional practice, a leading real estate development practice, a best-in-class business immigration practice and complementary practices in complex commercial litigation, trusts and estates, labor and employment, employee benefits, nonprofit organizations, public affairs, intellectual property and creditors' rights. With this foundation, its lawyers are well-positioned to link the growing needs of its clients with a broad, deep, platform-based approach to client service.
