

Dentons Climate Change team hosts carbon pricing event in Toronto

July 13, 2016

The Climate Change team recently presented a client seminar in Dentons' Toronto office, broadcast via webinar, to examine Canadian legislative developments impacting the carbon market and related international experiences. The presentation was moderated by Ambassador Gordon Giffin, partner in our Washington, DC, and Montreal offices, and featured partners Jeff Fort (Chicago), Alex MacWilliam (Calgary) and associate Meredith James (Toronto). The team analyzed recent regulatory developments in carbon pricing and emissions trading in Ontario, Alberta, British Columbia and Quebec, along with their impacts in the North American market and lessons learned from the European Emissions Trading System. Professionals from the energy, financial services, manufacturing, property management, insurance, transportation and government sectors attended.
