

Episode 3: China's new export legislation and blocking statute

January 26, 2021

In this episode, Sean Stephenson speaks with Henry Chen about China's new export control legislation and blocking statute. This legislation updates and completes China's export control regime and imposes reporting requirements and remedies largely responsive to recent US legislation. This is crucial for integrated supply chain compliance, specifically for the defence and technology sectors, as well as western businesses with a presence in China.
