

Overview

COVID-19 has spread rapidly across the globe, bringing unprecedented economic upheaval and legal and regulatory change. Many financial institutions are in the eye of the storm, managing operational upheaval, impacted business lines and compliance issues, often while supporting Government business finance initiatives. We have expert dedicated lawyers to support financial institutions through the COVID-19 crisis and beyond. As the world's largest law firm, we can provide an unmatched level of global support, providing global advice informed by local knowledge on issues relating to:

- Regulation: including risk and compliance, governance, competition/antitrust and tax
- Operations: including employment, privacy and data security, litigation, legal operations, technology and procurement
- Business lines: including capital markets, business and personal banking, wealth and asset management and insurance
