

Overview

Does your company provide comprehensive compliance training for staff? If not, your company, its employees and even shareholders could be exposed to serious risk. Most countries now have competition regimes and anti-bribery, anti-money laundering and corruption laws. Infringement of these laws exposes companies to risks ranging from substantial fines to criminal sanctions.

Embedding a compliance culture in your company - with processes in place for training, monitoring, testing and updating staff – is essential to help to manage the risks.

The risks

Dentons Online Compliance is a cost effective way to reduce risks such as the following:

- Large fines
- Unenforceable agreements
- Damage to reputation
- Disgorgement of profits
- Public and private law suits
- Criminal sanctions (including imprisonment)
- Disqualification of directors
- Seizure of individuals' assets
- Significant drain on management time and financial resources

The benefits

- Comprehensive and current materials with updated, practical modules which allow you to select the modules that are most relevant to your industry and reflects any law changes
- Interactive and understandable language that engages users and helps them grasp key concepts
- Customizable content to provide scenarios specific to your business needs and can be easily co-branded
- Ease of access permits users to complete the online training through their mobile, computer or tablet, anytime and anywhere (Internet access required)
- Wide coverage enables efficient training of a large number of employees at geographically diverse companies at relatively low cost. Currently available in 9 jurisdictions with more to come.

Coming Soon

- Monitoring capabilities tracks and manages employee progress and can identify possible areas of risk or lack of understanding. Also includes sign off by employees that they have complied with the law and will continue to comply.
