Overview

A valued member of Dentons' Health Care practice, Joanna provides regulatory guidance to health care organizations with particular focus on helping clients navigate federal and state regulatory issues as they relate to health care transactions, as well as in support of Medicare and Medicaid compliance, reimbursement issues and internal investigations. Joanna works with a variety of health care providers and entities, such as hospitals, health systems, academic medical centers, ambulatory surgical centers, clinics and physician groups.

Joanna's experience assisting in health care transactions includes coordinating due diligence work streams for outside regulatory counsel and engaging with opposing counsel throughout the diligence process to support pre-sign and pre-closing activities.

Joanna joined Dentons as a summer associate in 2021 and is a graduate of the University of Virginia School of Law, where she was the Health Law Association president.

Joanna's experience includes:

- Serving on regulatory teams advising clients on complex transactions and coordinating due diligence work streams for regulatory matters, including Emergency Medical Treatment and Labor Act (EMTALA) policies, procedures and compliance.
- Assisting as a key member of the post-sign, pre-close team responsible for state and federal notifications required with an acquisition of a multi-location hospital, including CHOW CMS-855 filings, state licensure and designations, and accreditation filings with The Joint Commission.
- Counseling clients on compliance with federal and state anti-kickback/anti-inducement laws, the Stark Law, the Beneficiary Inducement Law and other Medicare and Medicaid rules and sub-regulatory policies relating to coverage and reimbursement.
