Overview

Kimberly J. O'Donnell is a partner in the Firm's Employment and Labor practice group where she advises and represents clients in matters involving a broad range of employment issues. She focuses her practice in employment litigation, where she represents employers in litigation before state and federal courts, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights and the Kentucky Division of Unemployment Insurance involving claims of employment discrimination, retaliation, retaliatory discharge, harassment, state and federal wage and hour laws, and violations of the Family and Medical Leave Act. Kim also advises employers on various employment issues, including employee handbooks, employee agreements, non-competition and confidentiality agreements, personnel policies and separation agreements.

Kim earned her J.D. from the University of Kentucky College of Law and her undergraduate degrees from the University of Kentucky. She is also a volunteer mediator for the Small Claims Division of the Fayette District Court.

Experience

Employment Litigation

- Ebbs v. Community Medical Associates, Inc. (d/b/a Norton Healthcare), 14-CI-00180, Oldham Circuit Court, 2018: Defended client at trial against plaintiff's claims of race discrimination, age discrimination and breach of contract. Kim argued the Motion for Directed Verdict, which was granted by the trial court on both the race and age discrimination claims. The jury returned a defense verdict in favor of client on the breach of contract claims. The jury also reached a verdict in favor of client on its counterclaim against the plaintiff.
- Buckman v. Ingersoll Rand Company, 1:14-cv-00149-GNS, United States District Court for the Western District of Kentucky, 2017: Defended client and served as lead trial counsel in a federal jury trial in which plaintiff sought damages for alleged workers' compensation retaliation. The jury quickly returned a unanimous defense verdict in favor of client..

Appeals

- Appointed to the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit's Criminal Justice Act Panel in December, 2017. The Criminal Justice Act Panel is a select group of qualified and court-approved attorneys who are eligible for appointment by the Court to represent individuals in criminal cases who are unable for financial reasons to retain counsel.
