Overview

Paul Holland is based in London but has spent many years working in the Middle East and much of his work continues to be linked with the area with which he maintains close ties.

Paul is a partner in the Asset Finance department, where he principally deals with the financing of aircraft. He acts for a range of clients including export credit agencies, commercial banks, operating lessors and airlines. He has wide experience of the various structures used commonly to finance aircraft, including both US Exim and European ECA supported transactions.

Due to the time Paul spent in the Middle East, he also has great interest and experience in Islamic finance and used to be head of the firm's Islamic Finance practice. Paul retains a great interest in Islamic finance and is a frequent speaker at conferences and other events.
