Overview

Toby McClamroch is Managing Partner of Dentons' US Region. Toby helps companies, government agencies and charter school operators with the complexities of government relations and lobbying at all levels.

Toby provides general corporate advisory work to companies and draws on his transactional experience to guide them through a variety of government-related matters. He helps corporate clients negotiate, procure and secure approval of government contracts. Toby also represents corporate clients, or their professional associations, before local, state and federal governments.

Toby also represents counties, cities and towns, and municipal agencies as their general counsel. He supports them in a variety of litigation and economic development matters and helps them with lobbying and government relations across state and federal agencies.

Toby's lobbying work extends to his representation of charter school operators. He advocates on their behalf at all levels of government and within the communities that they serve.

As the former Vice President and Majority Leader of the Indianapolis City-County Council, Toby brings considerable experience to the firm's government practice. A graduate of DePauw University and the Indiana University School of Law, he is active in a number of business, civic, and charitable organizations and a member of the Indianapolis, Indiana, and American Bar Associations.
