We are not so much moving towards a new normal, as living through a period of constant, accelerating change. As we navigate these challenging times, Dentons is here to support you in adapting and succeeding in the New Dynamic.

As part of our New Dynamic, Dentons has curated a unique series dedicated to the issues that matter to you. We have gathered together speakers from all walks of life, who are in and of the community in Scotland, to harness their expert stories, thoughts, opinions and inspiration on issues that impact, and are of interest to, those we work with.

In our third Big Blether, on Earth Day, Dentons partners, Alison Bryce and Alison Weatherhead, will be having a blether with Laura Young (aka Less Waste Laura) – an environmentalist, public speaker, zero waste advocate and sustainability graduate. Laura lives an environmentally conscious and as close-to-zero-waste lifestyle as possible, advocating for environmental education around the steps we can all take to tackle the big environmental issues. 2020 was a key turning point for our planet and everyone has the ability to do something to change the world and address our climate challenge. In the year COP26 is being hosted in Scotland, we are excited to hear what we can do personally to make a bigger positive impact on our environment.
