

Dentons selected as one of MGO's "Cannabis 50"

January 27, 2021

Dentons, the world's largest law firm, announces today that it has been selected as one of MGO's "Cannabis 50" in its Cannabis Impact Review. The publication recognizes the most inspiring, impactful and innovative figures and entities in the cannabis industry. Dentons US' Cannabis group is co-chaired by partners Kathryn Ashton and Eric Berlin.

The "Cannabis 50" was developed to celebrate the individuals and organizations making a positive impact across the regulatory, operational, financial, and cultural obstacles facing cannabis today. MGO's ultimate goal is to catalyze further innovation and positive growth by sharing the stories of those who motivate and encourage.

Few industries in the United States present more complex legal issues than cannabis. The field requires an understanding and appreciation of the broad range of legal, regulatory, operational and financial considerations for both the medical and recreational uses of cannabis and the expanding cannabidiol (CBD) oil and hemp industries. Dentons US' cannabis lawyers have extensive experience representing stakeholders in this and other highly regulated industries. Their multidisciplinary team has advised clients in many areas of cannabis law, including:

- State licensure applications and state and federal regulatory compliance
- State and federal legislative and policy advocacy
- Lending transactions, private placements and public securities offerings
- Corporate transactions, including joint ventures, affiliations, mergers and acquisitions
- Cross-border and domestic tax structuring
- Intellectual property and licensing
- Employment law, including issues under state medical cannabis programs
